| R-01247-21 | I note from reading the COPFS document “Disciplinary Policy and Procedure” version 1.1, dated December 2010 that on page 22, at point 9.3 under the heading of ‘Gross Misconduct’ one of the bullet points is <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Conduct liable to bring COPFS into disrepute Given that the COPFS have admitted before a full bench of the Court of Session that the prosecution of Whitehouse and Clark was malicious, how many staff have had disciplinary charges brought against them? There can be no argument that anyone taking part in the R V Whitehouse and Clark case has been party to bringing the COPFS into disrepute. I note that under the absolute liability approach used by the International Criminal Court, a defence of superior orders is never a defence. The purpose of this request is not to identify who, if any one has been disciplined, but rather to establish that some form of disciplinary action has taken place given the ramifications of R v Whitehouse and Clark on justice, not just for Mr. Whitehouse and Mr. Clark, but the other similar cases that must surely exist. I have another FOI request surrounding the charge of misconduct in public office already in process. I am happy for these to be combined | 16-May-21 | provided |

| R-01249-21 | The main plank of the Prosecution case in the Luke Mitchell murder trial was "guilty knowledge"; in finding the body quickly despite poor conditions, Luke Mitchell demonstrated that he already knew where it was. The guilty knowledge polygraph test (GKT; D. T. Lykken, 1959, 1960) is a psychophysiological method of identifying suspects with concealed information about a crime. Therefore, please may I have, under FOI, a copy of the Guilty Knowledge Test Examiners Report that was A) relied upon by Police Scotland & COPFS in their decision to prosecute | 17-May-21 | Exempt |

| | Luke Mitchell for the murder of Jodi Jones on the 30th June 2003 and B) relied upon at trial by the COPFS as the main plank of their Prosecution case. I would prefer the information to be delivered via return Email here please. | | |
| R-01250-21 | I am researching the truth, probity and veracity of the following allegations: “The main plank of the Prosecution case in the Luke Mitchell trial was "guilty knowledge"; in finding the body quickly despite poor conditions, Luke Mitchell demonstrated that he already knew where it was. In his defense, Luke Mitchell claimed that he went through a distinctive "V"-shaped hole in one part of the wall to find the body, because a family dog had alerted him to something suspicious. This was challenged by members of the 'search team' in court, although their original statements, of the 1st of July 2003, for up to a month after the murder corroborated Luke Mitchell's - they spoke of the dog scrabbling at the wall, and "suddenly pulling Luke over to the wall." No explanation was ever offered as to why their stories later changed to deny that the dog had reacted. The prosecution stated that only the killer could have known the exact location of Jodi's body.”SOURCE: https://murderpedia.org/male.M/m/mitchell-luke.htmTherefore, under FOI, may I please have A) copies of the “ORIGINAL POLICE STATEMENTS” of Luke Mitchell, NAMED AND B) copies of the alleged “CHANGED POLICE STATEMENTS” of NAMED as alleged in the aforementioned statement. | 17-May-21 | Exempt |

| R-02397-21 | 1) The Northern Constabulary (now Police Scotland) prepared a report into NAMED death for PF Tain and Dornoch. Could you please talk me through the procedure? Is it correct to say that because the death of NAMED was by natural causes (hypertensive heart disease), the Sheriff or PF would not have investigated it further? 2) In such cases of death by natural causes, is it standard procedure for the Sheriff to interview the witnesses or would this have been exclusively within the remit of the police? Would the Sheriff be acting under the local PF or independently? 3) If the local PF or Sheriff had additional questions for witnesses that were not included in the police report, would the PF or Sheriff have had the authority to interview witnesses independently of the police? 4) Given the high-profile of the deceased, did the local PF or indeed yourself anticipate that the Lord Advocate would have opened a Fatal Accident Inquiry? Can you comment as to why an FAI was not undertaken? 5) Is it correct to say that the PF has the power of a coroner and that they had instructed Raigmore Hospital's consultant pathologist to undertake the post-mortem? Would that responsibility have been NAMED's? If not, could you please talk me through the procedure? 6) Had the pathologist found evidence that contradicted the police conclusion (i.e., death by natural causes), could we have then expected an FAI to have been opened? Or would the PF have launched an independent investigation or referred the matter back to the police? 7) The search and rescue winchman, NAMED, told media that NAMED had fallen onto a ledge and that the fall might have contributed to his death, but this claim does not appear to have been accurate. Can you recall if such discrepancies in eyewitness accounts were discussed by the PF or Sheriff at the time and if they were resolved? | 4-Sep-21 | not held |

| R-03850-22 | I'm studying the Offensive Behaviour at Football Act 2012. I have read contrasting information about what happened to those charged with the Act after it's repeal in 2018. An article in the Herald claimed that half of those charged and still awaiting trial would have their charges changed to breach of the peace or another offence and the other half would not be pursued. However, I spoke to a member of a fan group who said to her knowledge that all charges were changed to another offence. I'm looking to find out exactly what happened with these charges and how many were changed to another offence. | 4-Feb-22 | Provided |
